RETURNED MEN OF OLD MCGILL HELD MEETING

Recognition In Re-establishment Legislation Subject Of Discussion.

LARGE TURN-OUT.

Petition To Be Shown To Governors Of McGill For Approval.

That the returned student is not to be discouraged yet in his fight for recognition in re-establishment legislation, was well shown at an enthusiastic meeting held last evening. He is determined to know why Canada with the smallest debt of any belligerent country, cannot extend to him the aid given to returned students in Great Britain, Australia, South Africa and Newfoundland. At present he is wavering between two opinions—whether the neglect shown him is because of some hidden influence working against him to the detriment of future Canada or whether he is merely the victim of a haphazard method of dealing with such vital interests as his cause represents. In either case a show-down is due in the near future. This was all brought out at the meeting.

After the minutes were read, Secretary McKern read the constitution, which was adopted after very little alteration. The official name of the association will be "The Returned Undergraduate Association of McGill University." It provides for a membership based on war-service, but does not exclude those who were unfortunate in not getting into a theatre of war. The purpose of the society is to further the interest of all soldier-students returned to civilian life. All funds acquired are to be raised by levies per capita on the returned associations of the various faculties.

The treasurer, M. O'Carra, was authorized to carry out all financial dealings with the bank. The news of the appointment of Mr. McGreer as executive representative was received with applause. President Learoyd then explained the efforts that were being made to make the country realize its responsibility to the returned students. A petition has been drawn up which presents the case of the students in clear and concise terms. It asks for further consideration of what already has been laid before the government. It draws attention to what has been done for students in countries which are more heavily burdened with debt than Canada and one cannot but wonder how it is that a student is deemed worthy of aid by the Newfoundland government and not worth a thought in Canada, even though the future of the country depends on men of his stamp. It draws attention to the fact that all Canadian students who enlisted in Imperial services, are given splendid opportunities of passing their studies in any university. It is stated in plain, rational terms with (Continued on page 3.)

FENCING CLUB MERITS GREAT APPROBATION

Men Hold Stiff Practice At Union.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

Mr. Long Gives Individual Instruction To Each Member.

The fencing practice at the Union yesterday afternoon was a great success. The men know their work to date very well indeed. Fencing Mr. Long to launch right into some new work. After going through a few of the usual preliminary exercises, the men were shown the correct way of coming on guard and the position of the left hand in doing so. It is very important, in foil fencing especially, to keep a good semi-circle between the tips of the fingers of this hand and the shoulder. It helps to maintain the balance while on guard, it throws the chest out in lunging, and helps to recover the body after the lunge.

At this point the most important feature of the meeting was taken up, namely the first two parries that the beginners learn, those of quarter and tierce. Mr. Long emphasized very strongly that, in the first place, the least possible target should be presented at which to thrust, and in the second place, that in parrying, the blade of the attacking party should only be borne sufficiently out of its course to just miss the body. The reason being that when wide parries are made, the target is always left open again for the attack, and the person parrying is at a second disadvantage, having his point too far out of line to make a successful riposte.

In future the men will be able to get a taste of what real fencing is like after their practices are over, as Mr. Long will begin to give individual instruction. The attention of fencers is especially drawn to the fact that on no account must they participate in any practices without their masks on, as there is considerable danger through accident to the eyes and throat.

Magee. An excellent programme has been arranged which will include several selections by the Mandolin Club, two boxing and two wrestling bouts by the B. W. and F. Club, and some songs and recitations. Of course, by no means the least item will be the refreshments.

The main object in holding the smoker is to get all the old scouts of the University together and keep them interested in the movement. The manhood of a nation is developed from its boyhood, and the boyhood depends on the training it gets. Nothing of late years has done so much toward this as the Boy Scouts' Association, and nobody is better able to carry on the good work than the university trained man, and especially the university trained old scout. So everybody turn out to-night, meet your comrades from other parts of this old world and we will all be assured of a rattling good time.

BIG SMOKER TO BE HELD BY B. W. & F.

Chief Sporting Event of Season Next Tuesday.

MANY ATTRACTIONS.

Several Outside Amateur Bouts Arranged—Good Musical Programme.

A big inter-faculty smoker has been arranged by the B. W. and F. Club, to be held on Tuesday, Dec. 16th. The activities of the club have attracted a great deal of attention this year, and the news of the smoker will undoubtedly be welcome. All three departments—boxing, wrestling and fencing are to be represented with contests in each between the different faculties. A good musical programme has been arranged including the Harmony Jazz Band and selections by the College orchestra and an abundance of smokes will be provided.

Before the war these smokers were always looked upon as big events of the winter season and invariably found enthusiastic support. Those who were present at the small exhibition given last year will remember that, although the club was then very deplete in numbers, a highly interesting programme was put on, which was enthusiastically received. This year a particularly attractive list of events has been prepared, and every effort is being made to make the meet one of the biggest and most successful ever held.

The work done up to date fully justifies this expectation. The club has an unprecedented membership, including a good many experienced men and the best of training facilities have been provided. In addition to the McGill matches several outside amateur bouts are being arranged, including a possible contest between McGill and M.A.A.

In boxing some good, lively bouts are promised by Mr. McBrearty, who is in charge of the advanced section. Mr. McBrearty's motto is "action," and he has successfully instilled this into the men he is training, so that we may be assured of some snappy and scientific work. There are to be four bouts of three two-minute rounds each. These will be judged according to the usual standards and decisions awarded in each case.

The wrestlers are also to stage four bouts, two of which will probably be heavyweights. The attendance at the voluntary classes, which have recently been started shows the enthusiasm with which the men are going in for the work and that they are determined to bring home the honors to the wrestling section. The practices show that the men are in the best of condition and should be able to give a good account of themselves next Tuesday.

Fencing promises to produce six or eight experienced duellists who are well acquainted with the finer and more scientific points of the game. Duelling swords will be used and (Continued on page 3.)

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1919.

Election Day

There is every reason to expect a record poll to-day in connection with the election of faculty representatives to the Students' Council.

The return of undergraduate affairs to a pre-war basis, the revival of traditional institutions and a consequent stimulation of college spirit, coupled with a growing concern on the part of the student body in matters which relate to the administration of their affairs, these are facts and circumstances which should make to-day's election of vital importance in the mind of every man.

The need of intelligent voting has been emphasized. It is your duty to see that in the casting of your ballot you are guided wholly and solely by consideration for the best interests of the University. Personal inclination and disinclination should not be permitted to influence the exercise of your right to a voice in the election of your representative. "Rise above narrowness and pettiness, if only because the prosperity of institutions which mean much to us all make it imperative that the best and most capable men be elected as leaders!"

The Des Moines Convention

Universities all over the continent are completing preparations for the sending of their respective delegations to the Des Moines Convention. Reports from various Canadian Universities and Colleges indicate unusual enthusiasm in connection with the great enterprise.

McGill, through the Y.M.C.A., has made arrangements relative to the sending of twenty delegates which is approximately our allotted proportion of the three hundred or more students who are to represent Canada.

Our representation at Des Moines is a matter which should concern every undergraduate. The issues involved in this unprecedented gathering are those which are of most vital concern at this crucial period in the world's history. Never before has the necessity for a wide diffusion and application of the principles of justice and righteousness been so apparent.

It is to the Universities that the world must look—to the college trained men, the men who are entrusted with the ability and means necessary for the achievement of a great re-construction, social, economic, political and religious. The Des Moines Convention has for its object the co-ordination of all the student forces on the continent with a view to making their influence count for the most.

CAMPUS COMMENT.

The mixed Sunday Sings are a fine thing in their way, but as Burpides says:

There's a metre in music,
 There's a metre in tone,
 But the best way to meet her
 Is to meet her alone.

Don't imagine that you are fooling
 'em when you study in your own room
 instead of the Library the night of the Union Dance.

According to friend Oscar, who is editing a college dictionary, the following are very concise definitions:

The R.V.C. pessimist is the dimpled
 darling who writes her own quips.

The R.V.C. optimist is the girl who still hopes to sport the masquerade ball costume that she folks back home mortgaged the farm to buy for the autumn mask ball sponsored by friend Jawn.

The McGill pessimist is the freshman who wears a belt and suspenders at the same time.

The McGill optimist is the boy who still wears a bottle-opener on his key-ring.

Next topic for debate for the "Lit"— Are 1919 dresses less becoming, or be-comingless?

To-day's the day they pass round the five-cent election cigars; we hear there are no stogies available at the stores within a three-mile radius of the college. Ought to be a heavy polling at that rate.

Our little sister, aged nine, hopes to find a cute little doll with real brown eyelashes in her stocking-toe on the 25th. Our own tastes run along similar lines, but we would prefer to see the above-mentioned by the mistle-toe.

VALUABLE ADVICE.

Did you ever stop to think of how many of the season's activities wind up with a dance, right from a house party to the finish of a football game, enable you to dance for the next party.

AQUATIC MEET ON SATURDAY HUGE SUCCESS

Sophs Took Honors At R. V. C. Swimming Party.

LUNCH AT R. V. C.

Event So Popular That It May Be Annual Affair.

Saturday morning at 11.30 o'clock a thick fog had settled over the M.A.A.A. tank. The R.V.C. competitors who had arrived on time looked at each other in dismay. Would the swimming-party have to be postponed? Would the fog lift before twelve, or could the swimming events take place in the fog? Suddenly from the rising mists and vapors, a fog-horn sounded, which on closer inspection proved to be Miss Cartwright's innocent whistle. By the time the last competitor reached the edge of the tank, the fog had completely disappeared. With one dive of delight everyone plunged in. The events then commenced; and with the unequalled skill of Mr. Rose, as the officiator, were carried out in record time.

The first event was twenty yards, free style, with face dive. This was carried on in two heats, and the final Jean Henderson came first in 15s. F. Fitzsimmons 2nd, Miss Douglas 3rd.

Next came the diving, plain and voluntary. There were six competitors for this event, with the result that many good demonstrations were made. In this event Miss L. Savage scored the most, with J. Henderson a close second.

In the plate-diving, the six competitors made a splendid attempt, each bringing up at least one plate. In the second attempt F. Fitzsimmons brought up three plates, giving her a total of five. M. Howell came second with four plates, and M. Murray and D. McConnell tied with two each.

The most amusing of all the events was the staff race. Several corks were thrown into the middle of the tank, and the staff had to dive after them, trying to catch as many as possible in their mouths. Miss Cartwright, Miss Henry, Miss Symons and Miss Christie comprised the staff. It proved a hard task to catch these corks, and Miss Cartwright deserves a great deal of praise for getting two. Miss Christie came second with one cork. Whoever imagines that to trap a cork with one's mouth is a simple matter ought to be given an opportunity to prove his skill.

The next event, a 40 yards dash, was run off in three heats. The first 20 yards were to be breast or side stroke, the return 20 yards were to be on the back. Miss A. Douglas came first in 42.2.5 sec., Miss L. Levy came second, Miss Q. Savage, third.

The walking race proved very amusing. It was carried out in pairs. A walked across the tank carrying a B returned carrying a K. Godwin and E. Lewis were first; E. Dart and A. McPherson were second.

The next event was the long plunge. This was won by J. Henderson with 13 feet. Miss Douglas came second with 25 feet.

Because of the limited amount of time in which the events were carried out, the relay race was not run off, and the programme ended with stunts.

Q. Savage was the leader, and she did her part well, for at the end very few could follow her. The first few stunts were simple, jumping off the spring-board, or rolling off; but these were followed by hard dives, such as the Jack-knife and the back somersault dive.

At one o'clock sharp every one was out of the tank, and at 1.30 all, save a few stragglers, were out of the building.

Not the least enjoyable part of the programme was the picnic lunch which took place in the Common Room at R.V.C. Here, owing to the splendid efforts of Jean Reid and her committee, the hungry but happy swimmers were able to overcome their hunger and feed on dainty sandwiches, delicious cakes, buns and biscuits, and to quench their thirst with hot chocolate. It was unanimously agreed that Jean Reid and her refreshment committee carried out their duty right royally.

By the time everyone was quite satisfied—it surely took a long time to satisfy those hungry swimmers—Miss Ailie Douglas, the swimming-party manager, was prepared to present the prizes. Miss Cartwright was called upon to present the first prize to Jean Henderson of 11. Year, who had won 13 points. To Miss F. Fitzsimmons Miss Cartwright presented another prize. Q. Savage, president of the Athletic Association, presented the staff prize to Miss Cartwright.

To Miss Cartwright, Miss A. Douglas and Mr. Rose, the success of the party is due. So successful did it turn out that we may be sure of one every year, at the least. Among our visitors and witnesses of our swimming meet were Dr. Harvey, Mr. Lamb, members of the School of Physical Education, and numerous undergraduates. We wish to thank everyone who helped make this meet a success, but most of all do we wish to thank the M.A.A.A. authorities for the use of their tank.

LETTERS OF A FRESHMAN.

By Gen.

Strathcona's Hall
 The McGill University,
 Dec. 8th, 1919.

Dear Pa:

Well Pa, seeing as they's peace and quiet in our diggings, I'm a going to write you a regular old timer, which same will be the last before I go up to home to have a crack at that old turkey you was telling me about.

Austy Heron is just after going out. He seemed kind of worried like and I asked him the reason and he replied back that he cant understand why they call them babies when they're past forty-three. He told me he had reckoned on studying for an exam in the Faculty of Medicine to-night, but with this worry on his mind, he thought he'd go out and look for his friend John Collins and 3 Star Hennessy. It appears that when a man is good at Athletics, they call him a star. This man Hennessy is so dum good that he's called a star three times. He must be a regular bear-cat, eh Pa!

Here's a piece of news for you, Pa. You heard tell of this here Mr. Shaughnessy, the great McGill Football Coachman. Well, Sir, I was passing through the Union tother day on my way to the McGill Daily Journal Newspaper office when I seen Mr. Shaughnessy standing around. I went right up to him and says: "Hello, Mr. Shaughnessy."

He answered back: "Greetings, Rupe, when did you get in—on the last load of Huckleberries?"

I seen he was kidding me, so I says: "I'm Si Whiffletree. You may have read some of my funny jokes in the McGill Daily Journal Newspaper."

"Yes, I did," he replied back, "they're about as funny as the cross-bar of a crutch."

I didn't want to talk too much about my own jokes, so I says: "Say, Mr. Shaughnessy, I was up to the McGill Varsity College football game?"

"Oh, you were," he says, "who left the gate open?"

I let this pass—then I says: "I was sitting in the grandstand."

"It that a true fact," he asked interested like. "Who was the guy with you? I thought I saw somebody else in the stand. Maybe you were the one who were giving the McGill yell all the time?"

I seen he was kidding me again and not having no comeback ready, I says: "Well, so long, Mr. Shaughnessy," and he answered back:

"Over the river, St. Mind the crossings."

Pretty decent of him to talk to me like this, eh Pa. I guess if he hadn't of known I was the feller that was writing the funny letters to you in the McGill Daily Journal Newspaper, he wouldn't have been so affable like. When I told him I was the man what wrote them, he knew right away, I was a regular feller.

Maybe they wasn't fun nor nothing over the Club Initiation tother night. I was madder'n a horned toad on acct. what they done to me 3 or 4 times, but in course I cant tell you nor anybody else about it. Just the same, some of these here fellers pretty near got a dum good bust on the jaw, so help me pecked on! You needn't of worried about my buck and wing, because that was what I give them when they asked me to dance, and even if I do say it myself, what shouldn't it, it made one of these here ink-stained taneous hits.

Say, Pa, maybe little St's not good at this here repary nor nothing. You mind me telling you about a girl, what I tried to get new with me over to the Royal Victoria College a ways back.

Well, Sir, from what Austy Heron says, it appears that when there here R.V.C. ettes tries to kid you, as the saying is, you've got to kid them back good and plenty. Once they get a holt on you, even Nuxated Iron wouldn't help you.

Pa, example, I was over to the Annual Board Meeting tother night at the Royal Victoria College, and when I was passing down the hall, this same girl comes up to me and says again: "Hello, Cutie, who tied your tie?"

Quick as a flash, I replied back: "Well you didn't, anyways, smarty!" and she shut right up. I tell you, Pa, once you know how to do it, it's as easy as shooting fish in a bucket! But don't let them get a holt on you, or they'll give you the merry ha! ha! as the saying is. Austy says if I keep it up and get a reputation around the McGill for being a feller what's good at repary, I'll have to carry a club to beat the girls off, because they's nothing they like better'n a feller what's good at repary. I guess this here French-woman, Madame de Stael would have to hop a few if she met little St, eh Pa! Maybe its the training I get over to the Faculty of Laws. They's no use talking, Pa. When a feller from the Faculty of Laws starts off, he leaves 'em all glued to the track. Will you say it for me Pa?

Tell Ma to start laying in a stock of pies, so forth etc. I like my Union kafe, but oh you flap jacks and fasses, eh Pa!

Your loving son,

SI ALOYSIUS WHIFFLETREE
 P.S.—If this here Carpenter hadn't of been so dum clever, I'd be riding around on rubber tires. What with the high cost of Xmas presents and the like, one or two strips of government parchment would make little St feel like a new man. Remember, Pa, what's one man's poison, is another man's three squares per each day.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY MISSIONARY

Miss Spencer Makes Japan Subject Of Address.

SPOKE AT R. V. C.

Conditions Of Far East Most Deplorable.

At a special meeting of the Y.W.C.A. held in the Common Room, yesterday, at 4.15 o'clock, Miss E. Spencer, a missionary from Japan, gave a most interesting informal talk. Miss Spencer had won the hearts of the six McGill delegates at Camp Couchiching, and yesterday she won the hearts and admiration of her audience. This was not only due to her delightful talk, but also to her charming manner and personality. As Miss Spencer had spent five years in Western Japan, there was very little she does not know about that part of the country.

Miss Spencer introduced her talk with a charming Japanese bow, and a few complimentary words of that language. She then told how the Japanese women were leading in most of their colleges, even getting beyond the men students. How great efforts are being made in Japan to bring the women to see the necessity of social service, to remedy the bad conditions in factories. Though a law was passed a few years ago stating that no child under twelve could be employed on night shifts, it has not been adhered to, and the result is that these tiny children are worked during the night under appalling conditions. Christian women are needed to stand up against these conditions, in order that the tiny children may live a normal life. Despite the fact that the children work through the night, very little food or recreation is granted them. Their reward is the paltry sum of two and a half cents for selling themselves to their mean employers. These are the conditions that need to be remedied, and Christian men and women are needed to help them.

Miss Spencer then told about the Gelsa girls, who are made to keep themselves pretty to please their employers. Every year 200,000 of these girls flock into the large cities, but less than 80,000 ever return to their homes. Of the few who do return, twenty-three per cent, at the least, go home sick with tuberculosis. The employers, the root of the evil, do not care what becomes of the girls, and are only too glad to get rid of them. One man, a Japanese, tried to improve these conditions. He became a Christian, and with the help of some Christian friends, set up a factory of his own, with good boarding houses nearby. To-day, this is the only factory where the manufactured silk is sent to America without previous inspection at Yokohama, and this is because the factory is reliable.

In explaining how Gelsa girls were obtained, Miss Spencer said that people went around to the houses of factory girls, where there were pretty sisters. These men spoke to the girls' fathers, telling how if they were sold, the money could go toward educating the sons of the family. The fathers would consent, and the girls would be taken off to the Gelsa houses. Here they would be taught to sing and tell jokes, until they lost all their attractions or their voices became cracked. Here we have the real meaning of Gelsa—"cracked voice." There are laws stating that if the girl wishes to leave she may, but against these laws are ignored. As Miss Spencer went down to the Gelsa district every Tuesday night, it was not hard for her to prove that despite the smiles and pretty faces of the Gelsa girls, they are not happy.

During her talk, Miss Spencer told one or two delightful stories, true ones, how Christianity came into and helped several Japanese families. One of these stories was about a girl who had married a school-teacher. After a few years her husband died, and his family took her child from her, and sold all her belongings to bring the child up. The poor wife was left homeless and friendless, till she sought out a Christian catechist, who found a home for her near Miss Spencer. The lovely girl confided in Miss Spencer, telling of her little sister who lived in the country. This little child had infantile paralysis, and could never go out. After one visit to the poor child, Miss Spencer decided to go out every week to tell her about Christianity. The result was that soon the whole family, including the father, became Christians, and were baptized. An amusing incident relating to this story was that which occurred on the day of their baptism. To celebrate the great event Miss Spencer made a large spice cake, and covered it with white icing. This was placed in front of the older sister to be cut; but it was not touched. About two weeks later Miss Spencer visited the family and enquired about the cake, and whether it had been eaten. To her surprise she saw it still uncut, and asking why they had not touched it, she learned that the family took it for a foreign hat. They had never seen an iced cake before!

The same little paralyzed girl is now teaching Sunday School, and her brother is in High School preparing to become a Divinity teacher.

When Miss Spencer left Japan a short year ago, she was asked when she would come back and how many girls she would bring with her to teach Christianity. The Japanese girls told Miss Spencer what kind of missionaries or teachers they want. They must be cheerful, patient, broad-minded and not easily discouraged, those who will stick to their work with good spirit.

At the close of her talk Miss Spencer emphasized how important prayer is in this world; and how few things

TOWNSHIPS CLUB TO HOLD SMOKER

Branch Of the Club May Be Formed At R. V. C.

A meeting of the executive of the Eastern Townships Club was held in the Union last night. It was decided at this meeting to hold a smoker in the Union on the night of Thursday, December 18th. It will be impossible to hold this function earlier, because it is felt that examinations in the Faculty of Medicine would interfere with the work of the committee, and make it very difficult for the members of the club to attend. This is the day before the end of the term, and no one will be worrying about their studies, so there should be a good turnout.

It was also suggested that a branch of the Eastern Townships Club be formed at the R.V.C. for the ladies from the Eastern Townships who are attending McGill. The two organizations might then hold a series of meetings and social events of a much more varied nature than mere smokers and dinners. Dances, skating parties, snowshoe tramps, etc., might be arranged. This would be a decided innovation at McGill, no other sectional club having a dual organization of this sort. It is hoped that the R.V.C. students will take up with this idea, and organize at once.

For convenience in enabling the men who wish to join the Club to pay their fees. We republish a list of the executive:

Hon. Pres.—Dr. Geo. Armstrong.
President—J. C. Standish, Science '19.
Vice-Pres.—D. O. MacDonald, Med. '22.
Sec.—Treas.—T. V. Hudon, Med. '21.
Arts Representative—A. S. Johnson, Arts '22.
Medical Representative—Sherman, Med. '24.
Science Representative—S. C. Hill, Science '21.
Law Representative—D. Abbott, Law '22.
Dentistry Representative—R. E. Martin, Dentistry '23.

U. OF T. ATHLETES HOLD WORKOUTS

Varsity Basketball.

Varsity basketball teams are hard at work getting into trim for their league games. Much good material is showing up and a very good season is anticipated.

ORGANIZATION OF SNOWSHOE CLUB

Members Keen On Subject Of McGill Winter Carnival.

The Snowshoe Club, which is a branch of the Track Club, held its initial meeting in the McGill Union at 5.15 last night. J. L. O'Brien, President of the Track Club, was in the chair. As this club is a sub-organization of the larger one, W. R. Kennedy was elected manager of the snowshoe branch.

A trail run will probably be held next Saturday. A definite notice will be published in the "Daily" before that date, giving the exact hour and place of meeting.

Great enthusiasm is being shown in the starting of this activity. Many turned out for the first meeting, and several valuable suggestions were made. The meeting passed a resolution putting itself on record as in favor of a winter carnival to be held at McGill about the 31st of January, and that representatives of the Eastern American Colleges, and from the different Canadian Universities be asked to take part in the meet. The idea seems to be to make at least a start this year, not necessarily on a very great scale, so that in later years, the Annual McGill Carnival of Winter Sports may be an important event in the winter life of the University. The Athletic Association will be asked to take up the question at once. There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

rounds of ten minutes each put on. This is one of the most exciting of indoor sports particularly from the spectators point of view, since speed and accuracy are the chief objects. The fencing club has been dormant for several years past and its revival is being intently watched by all sportsmen of the College.

Tickets will be placed on sale in the Union at nine o'clock Wednesday morning. Only a limited supply is available and no reservations are being made. The prices are fifty cents for general seats and seventy-five for ringside. No telephone orders accepted. Get your tickets early and avoid all chance of disappointment.

Owing to the lack of sets, the other men were unable to play, but spent the evening very profitably watching the games.

A brief meeting was held after the games, and the following officers were elected:

Hon. President—Prof. Davies.
President—N. Enzer.
Vice-President—R. Du Berger.
Sec.—Treas.—R. Jordan.
Council—B. Glickman and J. Demers.

The following motion was unanimously passed:—

That all members of the club provide themselves with chess sets or pay a fee of $1.00. Members are requested to fall in line with this motion, in either paying Mr. Jordan or bring their own sets.

It is absolutely useless to come down unprepared to provide a set. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Falconer and also Prof. Davies, through columns for further notices.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE side of the paper ONLY.

No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

To the Editor, McGill "Daily."

Dear Sir:—

I would like to bring to the notice of the students a matter which has arisen lately in connection with the tickets for the Union dances, and I refer specially to the informal dance on Friday next.

It is a well known fact that the tickets for the above mentioned dance were sold within the short time of two hours. But these tickets were not all sold to students or at least if bought by students, were later transferred to other parties.

I have heard of numerous outsiders who have tickets for that dance and the number certainly exceeds those within my pen.

Now as well as outsiders having tickets, the mistake has been made of selling several tickets, three or four, to one man. This state of affairs might be perfectly all right if the supply of tickets was unlimited, but in this case it comes to the old occurrence of outsiders being at the college dances and because of that students are unable to procure tickets. This same thing, in a sense occurred when the Prince of Wales received his degree. Now could not some means be adopted by the committee in charge of these affairs to prevent this kind of thing going on continually? At least there is no reason why one man, one ticket, could not be arranged in future.

Thanking you for your space, sir,

I remain,
Yours truly,
A non-Ticket-Holder.

no attempt at intimidation and such a petition cannot help but receive notice from a government which holds any ideals for the re-construction of Canada.

Leaoyd stated that the required aid would amount to less than three million dollars, and enlarged on the fact that it calls for no class-legislation. Sir Robert Falconer and even Tom Moore had wiped away that attempt at camouflage at the sitting of the parliamentary committee. Some other excuse than "the country can't afford it," or "Class-legislation," must be used in the future to explain why the student has been neglected in legislation.

Mr. Trefry in an impassioned speech decried any attempt to class this petition as a "hold-up" or savouring of "redism." It was, he said framed by one of the sanest minds in Canada. By a man who had served at the front and who had always been interested in the responsibility of a modern government to education. He moved that the petition be shown for individual and collective approval, to the Board of Governors of McGill. The motion was carried unanimously.

Pres. Leaoyd then explained to the meeting that this is a nation-wide effort. A central organization has been formed with Mr. Wright, of Queen's University, as president. The purpose of the central organization is to unite the efforts of all universities. This last effort, he said, was meeting the hearty approval and support of the heads of all the sister universities with which he is in communication.

The president then surprised the meeting by calling attention to the clause in the constitution which requires the election of new officers every half-term. This meant the immediate election of a new executive. The meeting insisted that no elections be held and that the present executive stay in office until next session.

Mr. Leaoyd said "If the other members of the executive are willing to carry on, I am." The remark met with a storm of applause, which shows the place "Doug" has attained in the estimation of his comrades by his unceasing efforts in their cause. Needless to say, there were no elections.

The feeling expressed at the meeting was one of enthusiastic co-operation. There is no doubt that the association will receive the support of every returned undergraduate and every soldier-student is urged to attend.

whom Mr. Falconer was secured. It was decided that the matter of a continuous tournament be left in the hands of the executive, who will publish the groups in a few days.

Already the club is receiving recognition, offers having been received from various city clubs to play matches, but the members prefer not to engage in any matches until the strength of the players can be accurately judged.

The next meeting will be held next Monday night. Watch the "Daily" columns for further notices.

ANOTHER CLARION CALL FOR ARTISTS.

It must be impressed upon those who wish to submit drawings for the Annual, that time is flying and that it is imperative that drawings be handed in before Xmas.

Final lists of drawings required have been posted in all the buildings, with directions as to size, etc. If any help or advice is needed in drawing the actual designs, such as printing, etc., the Art Editor will be only too glad to assist.

The success of the Annual depends a great deal upon the drawings printed, and as 70 are to be published, everybody has an excellent chance of having their work accepted. Generous awards will be given for accepted designs. The prizes will be published in the near future.

Members of the R.V.C. are particularly asked to get in as many drawings as possible, even if the title or printing is left out. This can all be put in after their being submitted.

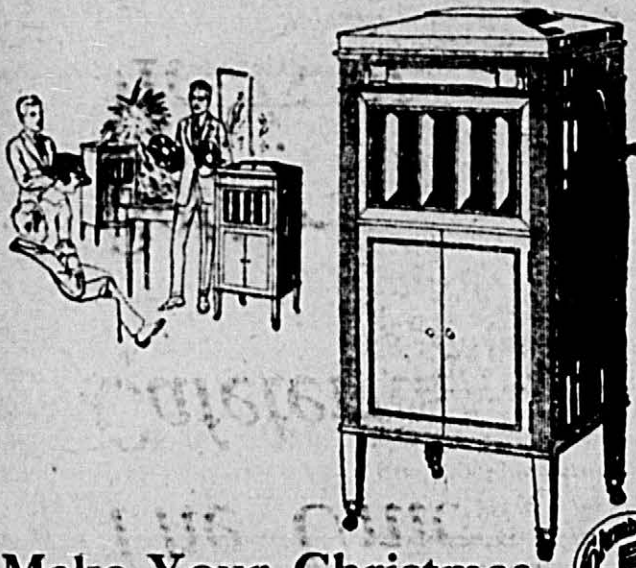

Drawings from the R.V.C. may be left with the Porter of the R.V.C. Other drawings should be submitted to the Art Editor, G. Durnford, Room 61, Engineering Building, or left with the Janitor of that building.

Washington, Dec. 8.—Size of newspaper and periodicals would be limited until July 1, 1921, under a bill that Representative Anthony, Republican, of Kansas, will introduce next week in an effort to relieve the newspaper shortage.

Daily newspapers would be limited to twenty-four pages, Sunday editions to thirty-six pages, weekly and bi-weekly periodicals to seventy-five pages, and monthly periodicals to 100 pages.

Arrangements have now been completed for the taking of the Graduation pictures of the Science Seniors. The photographs will be taken at Notman's studio, 471 Union Avenue. The large original picture is presented to the college, not framed. 15 x 22 inch copies of the group, $1.00 each. For individual portraits from negatives used in the group, Notman's give their:

$12.00 finish for $7.00 per dozen.
$10.00 finish for $5.00 per dozen.
$8.00 finish for $4.00 per dozen.

Notman's cannot possibly handle this work until after Christmas, but a few Science Seniors who are in town over the holidays would do well to have their photographs taken before college re-opens, and save themselves the trouble of going down to the studio while college is on. Notman's are open for business from 9.00 a.m. until 5.30 p.m.

A list of the class has been given to the photographers, which will be followed strictly when making up the group. It is therefore important that

UNIV. SOCIAL SERVICE CLUB REORGANIZES

Important Meeting At the Hall To-Night.

EVERYONE INVITED.

New Constitution To Be Read and Voted On.

To-night there will be a very important meeting of all those who are interested in any form of social service, for the purpose of considering the proposed constitution of the McGill Social Service Club.

Just a year ago the University Social Service Club was organized, and has, to the present time, been actively engaged in a number of ways among the institutions of this city. The organizing and directing of the Boys' Night School was a direct result of the initiative on the part of its members, and this school, which is still in operation, provides a special field for students interested in the study of the peculiar characteristics of the street boy.

It seems that the time has come when the Social Service Club should be essentially a students' organization. Having this in view, the club at a recent meeting declared in favor of reorganizing the club and the drafting of a new constitution.

The committee appointed to draw up this constitution has completed its task, and it will be read at to-night's meeting and voted upon. If approved, it will be sent to the proper authorities for their approval.

Other matters of interest will be discussed, and as there are a number of students interested in social service a good turnout is expected to-night at 7.30 at the Hall.

FACULTY SEC'Y TO BE POND REP.

Chosen Canadian Manager
For Pond Lyceum Bureau
Of N.Y.

The "Daily" offers its most cordial congratulations to Miss Mabel Fetherstonhough, who has resigned her position of Secretary of the Faculty of Arts to accept an appointment as Canadian representative of the Pond Lyceum Bureau of New York. Greatly as the loss of Miss Fetherstonhough's services will be felt by the University, the wide opportunities that she will enjoy in her new field of work will render her new appointment a matter of sincere pleasure to her many friends at McGill.

The Pond Lyceum Bureau of New York is the oldest and most important institution of its kind in the world. It was founded in 1873 by the celebrated Major Pond, a man whose name became a household word throughout America and who was generally regarded as one of the greatest organizers of his day. Major Pond will be remembered as having arranged and conducted the worldwide tours of such men as Mark Twain and Henry M. Stanley.

His son, the present head of the Bureau, controls an organization that operates throughout the United States, England and the British Dominions. Miss Fetherstonhough is to take charge of all the work of the Bureau for Eastern Canada. Among other celebrities whose work upon the platform will fall under her management, will be Vincente Blasco Ibanez, the author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," Hugh Walpole, the British novelist, and the world-famous Maurice Maeterlinck.

SOCIETE FRANCAISE MATINEE.

The faculty and students of R.V.C. are invited to attend, on Wednesday afternoon next, a "Concours de Drame," to be given by the Societe Francaise. It will consist of scenes selected from "Les Femmes Savantes," "Le Voyage de M. Porrichon," and "Les Precieuses Ridicules." The "actresses," who are first and second year students, will be costumed in the period, and they promise to give their audience even more amusement than did the Delta Sigma players.

Remember, all students—graduate, undergraduate and partial—as well as active members, are invited.

MANDOLIN CLUB PRACTICE.

The Mandolin Club held its customary snappy practice last night at Mr. Peate's Studio. There was a good representative gathering of members, and the way they picked their way through the aggregation of notes placed on the music stands before them augurs well for the entertainment of their audiences in the near future.

The club has two engagements before the holidays. To-night they will play at the Smoker in the Union for former Boy Scouts at McGill; while on Monday night they will perform at the meeting of the Medical Society.

MONDAY NIGHT AT THE THEATRES

ORPHEUM.

The play this week is very good and is entitled the "Walk-Offs." It deals in a highly entertaining manner with the life of the idle rich and society folk who live on their friends. The title has its origin in a term used by the negroes for the "empty-headed swells" of New York.

The story of the play is exceptionally interesting and well told. Carolyn Rutherford, a wealthy New Yorker, has just divorced her husband because of philandering and his laziness, and bitterly regrets the step the moment it is taken, knowing that he has done no real wrong. Schuyler Rutherford, the husband, is a happy-go-lucky fellow, lazy enough, unwilling to work, but really in love with his wife. There is a general meeting of both parties, accidentally, in the sculpture studio of Mary Carter, a wealthy sculptress and Bohemian. Into this party comes Robert Shirley Winston, a red-blooded, wealthy Kentuckian, Mary's cousin, a man imbued with all the high old ideals and ideas about the sanctity and seriousness of married life and marriage ties. He denounces the looseness of New York living in a conversation with Mary, and incidentally speaks in condemnatory terms of Kathleen Rutherford, one of the witnesses in the divorce suit, and a sister of Schuyler's. The girl overhears him, and declares she will be revenged. With this object in view she assumes the role of Kate Ford, stenographer.

She deliberately plans to win Winston's affection, and succeeds. Then she reveals her true identity, and flings her trickery in his teeth. But Winston declares he will make her love him, and that nobody else shall have her. To accomplish this end he adopts distinctly Petruchio methods, and the latter part of the play is an amusingly modern adaptation of the story of the "Taming of the Shrew."

The dialogue is smart and snappy, and the characters are cleverly drawn. Altogether, the comedy makes an entertainment of an unusually amusing kind.

LOEW'S.

Norma Talmadge, in "The Isle of Conquest," is the attraction at Loew's this week. The vaudeville programme contains a few good numbers, but on the whole is not above the average.

"The Isle of Conquest" is a picture with an unusual theme. It is well connected, and the plot is worked out with excellent finish.

Miss Talmadge, with her captivating personality, pleases throughout, as Ethel Harmon, the charming daughter of an extravagant and indiscreet widow.

Mrs. Harmon, his finances reduced by great extravagance, urges her daughter to marry a millionaire whom she (Ethel) does not love.

Ethel's married life is very unhappy, and she forms a hearty detestation of all men. Her husband drinks heavily and undermines his health. He carries out his doctor's orders of a voyage to the South, and Ethel accompanies him.

John Arnold, a man who, in striving to forget the faithlessness of his fiancée by drink, has sunk very low, ships as a stoker on the same boat as Ethel and her husband.

The ship is wrecked, and Arnold rescues Ethel. They are cast on a desert island and find themselves in a peculiar situation. Arnold hates women even with more vehemence than Ethel hates men.

They decide, however, that they have to work together to save their lives. After a few days on the island, Ethel begins to put more trust in Arnold, and after two months she admits that her opinion of men has changed considerably. Her partner makes a similar admission of his opinion of women.

Ethel promises to marry him, but on their "marriage day" a yacht bearing Ethel's husband (whom she thought had been drowned) and others land on the island.

On their return to the "sham" life, however, her husband dies, and she is able to marry the man whom she really loves.

Torelli's Circus, which is the advertised feature of the programme, exhibits some very clever "stunts," but nothing very new in animal acting is in evidence.

Cross and Santoria give a good exhibition of strength in an arm-balancing act.

Scanlon, Denno Bros. show some merit in a dancing and singing act.

Townsend, Wilbur and Co. give a return presentation of their laughable playlet, "The Smart Aleck." Townsend, who is a former Montrealeur, wrote the play and plays a dual role splendidly. Laughton and Smith, in a comedy, "All in Fun," draw many a laugh. Their songs are very amusing.

"Fatty" Arbuckle returns after some weeks in a comedy of the usual type furnished by him.

Loew's "British and Canadian Gazette" brings the bill to a close.

THE PRINCESS.

This week's show at the Princess is quite on a par with the excellent bills that are usually presented by that management. In the opening act, Minnie Faust performs very well on a comedy-revolving ladder. Next, Ann Gray renders some excellent selections on her harp; she also sings the "Will o' the Wisp" and other old songs, accom-comedy with a somewhat moss-grown plot, entitled "Charley from the Orient," completes the bill.

Constance Talmadge is attractive,
and acts extremely well, and the play of "The Veiled Adventure" is ingeniously conceived. On this account the performance is well worth seeing. As a well-balanced bill, however, the programme is a little lacking on the comedy side.

THE IMPERIAL.
Bessie Barriscale is not up to her usual standard in "Kitty Kelly, M.D." or perhaps it is the fault of the play, which does not give her a chance to display her charms. However, there are a few bright scenes in the play which catch the audience.

"A Rainy Day" furnishes amusement for the young element and brings the older back to their youth and the troubles they got into on rainy days.
Mutt and Jeff is of exceptional merit
this week, and for once in his life, Jeff
"put one over" on Mutt, and "got away with it."

The Topics of the Day are also catchy, and the music is good, but the show as a whole is not up to its usual standard.

When Geraldine Barker, played by Constance Talmadge, finds a mysterious grey veil in her fiancée's pocket things begin to happen. Her impetuous character drives her to teach the erring Reggie a lesson. To further her purpose, she rents a beauty parlor from Hortense, the very woman who has been leading the culprit astray. Here she meets Dick, a college chum of her brother's, who has lately returned from the West. Despairing of getting even with Reggie, who has absconded with Hortense, she determines to use her powers of correction on certain of Dick's unnecessary virtues. A very amusing battle of wits ensues, and Geraldine makes her unwilling victim do many things against his will before she compels him to elope with her.
after she has publicly disgraced her former fiancée.

Miss Fildes sings an amusing character song, entitled "I Wish I Were a Janitor's Child," in place of the advertised singer, who was unable to appear.
